Yesterday morning the time was taken up, as it generally is, by trials of officers for mere petty infractions of Station-Horas discipline, or of technical transgressions of police laws, which have been exacted mensily for the government of the force, and in which the outside public are supposed to be aninterested. These cases are sedom of interest to the general peblic, but the afternoon is given up to the investigation of charges preferred, against police officers by private citizens. Of the cases brought up yeared as the following are supposed to be uninterested to be not mean to the police bepartment.

ESSEX MARKET POLICE COURT.

A BAD HUSBAND.

Mrs. Hoffman, a respectable looking woman, brought and scene dident was to be driven like a dog, and scene digly be did not move on. In a short time the policeman came back and floding the compaisant with a number of friend still there, again ordered them to move and when Harrington declined te go, the olicer took him to the Station-House, where the Sergean discharged him. He was not obstructing the stawark or taking found.

The officer's statement is that his Captain had ordered his pairs to keep the streets clear, and that he was but obeying orders in all that he did. In fact, the testimony of all witnesses goes to show that the officer was perfectly respectful, and that he did led fact, the testimony of all witnesses goes to show that the officer was perfectly respectful, and that he did led fact, the testimony of all witnesses goes to show that the officer was perfectly respectful, and that he did led fact, the testimony of all witnesses goes to show that the officer was perfectly respectful, and that he did led fact, the testimony of all witnesses goes to show that the officer was perfectly respectful, and that he did led fact, the testimony of all witnesses goes for anything else.

THE SUPERIOR COURT CLERKSHIP—CORRECTION.—The notice of the change of clerkship of the Superior Court, published on Saturday last, should have stated that the former incumbent, George E. Baldwin, resigned on account of ill health, and was not removed, as then stated.

he will doubties be disposed to acquit the policeman of all blane.

MoLengblin Schlever accused Patrolman Andrew Clarkson with Hogally arresting him. It seems that at 2 or 3 a, m, the complainant was standing by the street, and, the officer taking him for a suspicious character, ordered him to move on. He said he was waiting for a car. The officer teld him that there was no car at that tune of night and, after some words, took him into the Station-House, where the Sergeant dissharged him. The officer is doubtless all right.

JOHN SMITH ALL RIGHT AGAIN.

Twenty-seven hundred and ninety-cight times has John Smith been brought before the Commissioners on various charges. And it is always the same Smith—John, the beauty—the handsomest man in the force. He has been accused of almost everything in the whole list of police misdementors, and yet John has always been smart enough to save his bacon, the because yetserday John winksy while on duty. Though there was a man who wore that he saw John drink out of a bottle, and that he (the witness) at once took a big drink out of the case bottle and found that it had contained four hou whisky of a very fair quality, still as it appears that this writees is a personal enemy of John's, his testimony goes for so little that John will doubtless again be permitted to go about his business. John the Beauty is a looky chap, but he must get to the end of his rope some time.

DID NT SER A BURGLARY.

is a lacky chap, but he must get to the end of his rope some time.

DIDN'T SEE A BURGLARY.

John H. Ellis of No. 387 Turd-ave, made a complaint against Officer Adam Thebaid of the Twenty-first Precinct for not liveovering a burglary committed on the premises of Ellis. It appearing that the officer has a most difficult post to cover, and also that the complainant lad, after all, not lost any property, the officer will doubtless get off, soot free.

AN ALLEGER CASE OF CRICLERA.

Sergeant Elchard Lash, of the Third Precinct, was complained of by Mr. Jacob Marx, who keeps a restaurant and lodging hones at No. 182 Wester, for act sending to his bouse to take away a man whom he, Marx, had stated to the officer was suffering from an attack of choiera. It was shown that the bar-keeper of Marx, Mr. Frederick Lalor, had come to the Station-Hones in the evening, and stated that there was man very sick at Marx's place—that the sergeant referred him to Capt. Greer. Lalor saw Capt. Greer, who told him that if the man had dropped down in the street, or had merely stepped into the house of Marx as a stranger, and had then been taken ill, it would be the business of the police to take care of him, but that, as the man had been a guest at Marx's house for a year, the thing to be done was for Marx to get a carriage, which would cost him a couple of dollars, and send the man to the hospital.

In the morning, after the barkeeper had received these in-but that, as the man had been a guest at Mark's bonne for a year, the thing to be done was for Mark to get a carriage, which would cost him a couple of dollars, and send the man to the hospits!

In the morning, after the barkeeper had received these instructions from the Captain, Mark himself came in and saw the Sergeant, and demanded that the sick man be at once removed, or that a dector be sent to take care of him. Mark soon became abusive, and the Sergeant was compelled to tell him to go out, or he would lock him up.

The truth seems to be that the man had been a regular lodger in Mark house for more than a year, and that, the moment be was taken sick, his landlord tried to throw him on the care of the Police, instead of paying a couple of collars for a carriage to take him to the Hospital. The case was adjusted but the officer will, doubtiess, be held guiltless.

A lady who is well known to the Second Ward as "Big Mary of Johnest," charged that Officer Everett Bergen of the Second Precipet had assaalted her, but the truth seems to be that Mary provoked all the sasault that was made, and that the Policeman was again all right.

AN OFFICER VINDICATES HIMBELF.

Officer Evander S Allison of the Sixteenth was charged by Robert H. Smith of No. 274 Spring-st, with claubing bim. In defense it was shown that Allison, who was in plain clothes, entered the bonne of a Mr. Robbins in search of two boys who had stolen some wastedes, and that he had been detailed to this special duty by his captain. After entering the house he was interfered with by Smith, and the officer found it necessary to arrest him and take him off to the station-house. Smith tastified that the officer was drunk, but his captain swears that he was not interviated either before or after the time of arrest capt. Hedden appeared and justified/Officer Allison in every regard, and he will be beid guilliess by the Board.

This part of the Great Pacific Railroad routs is destined to be one of the most profitable lines of railroad in the world, and its First Mortgage bonds are among the best secured and most desirable investments ever offered. Over $1,000,000 has already been expended in grading
